ABOUT ME

I pride myself in being able to challenge what is normally accepted and to be able to get more out of an idea than what is typically expected. I find working outside of usual patterns or techniques often gives birth to new ideas and modes of being.

About me, I moved from Utah to New York to get more out of life and to challenge my own expectations. What have I gotten so far? The joy of seeing shops open on Sundays.

My work is best defined by my indifference to limits: as it goes, if there is a will there is a way. And with the right amount of interest and swagger, I truly believe that anything can be done.
